Q: PHP CURL SSL via localhost I've read the other posts, but can't get it to work, so here is my php example. My client's website is running on and i can access it via I've tried different hosts, the same basic code works with [url].com but not with [url].. $curl = curl_init(); curl_setopt($curl, CURLOPT_URL, ''); curl_setopt($curl, CURLOPT_RETURNTRANSFER, true); curl_setopt($curl, CURLOPT_SSL_VERIFYPEER, true); $output = curl_exec($curl); curl_close($curl); var_dump($output); The client's website uses https - so I think the key thing is that their website is hosted on localhost and I am trying to run it on localhost. But I've also tried running it on the outside ip of my local machine (127.0.0.1) with the same result. I've found this post that suggested adding the following to my hosts file on my local machine: 127.0.0.1 example.com I have done this, and added a trailing slash to the request - but this has not helped. Thank you in advance. A: This is assuming that your PHP code is in a webserver script. If it's in a local script, the URL is "localhost:111" This should work. You may need to change the example.

If the display area of the touch screen becomes larger, the flexibility of the user using the touch screen becomes wider. However, the number of the hot spots on the screen is limited due to the limitation of the hardware. In addition, for the user who uses the electronic apparatus with the touch function for a long time, the cursor is not displayed in the touch screen, and the user has to perform the process of searching for the hot spots, and then the user has to search for the icons on
