Life and times Fernando de la Rúa y Bentivegna was born in Valdemoro, Spain, on 30 May 1840, the only child of Francisco de la Rúa y Bruyas and Estefanía de la Bentivegna. His first government position was as Secretary of the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce in the cabinet of Don José Figueroa Alcorta, during 1874–1878. The following year he was appointed as chief clerk of the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce of the Supreme Council of Argentina. On 24 August 1882, he was appointed Assistant to the Department of External Relations in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, a position he held until 1889, when he was appointed Councillor of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. In 1891 he was appointed State Secretary of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, position he held until 1894, when he was appointed Secretary-general of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Numerous events are attributed to de la Rúa, including the creation of the Argentine League of Nations, founded in 1902. He was chosen as the League's first Secretary-general, and led the negotiations that led to the Treaty of Peace between Argentina and Chile of 1904. He was married to María de los Angeles Muñoz de la Rúa, from the family of the famous and tragic historical figure, General José de San Martín. He died in San Miguel de Tucumán, Argentina, on 13 July 1907, at the age of 66. Nominated and elected Vice President Fernando de
